

We invite you to grab a brick and make
BRICKTACULAR ART for our
10th Annual Breast Cancer Brick Auction

Diagnosed with Breast Cancer, Ellen Bernstein Ganson felt like she was hit with a ton of bricks. She co-founded Bricks Along the Journey with Marcia Levitas. Ellen lost her battle to Breast Cancer on September 26, 2006. In celebration of Ellen's life and her determination to fight Breast Cancer we continue the Journey.

We are pleased to announce that 400 Artists participated in last year's event which raised $35,000 bringing our total auction proceeds to $250,000 which we allocate to breast cancer research, education, advocacy & patient support in Greater Cincinnati. We are proud that more than a dozen states have been represented by Artists creating brick art.

You can now go to our website: www.breastcancerbricks.org and register by clicking on Artists, then Artist Registration. This way we can be sure you receive information about the auction and the ARTIST APPRECIATION PARTY! You will also find the forms for the Artists Bio and Inspiration.

This year we will have two dates, (on or before) for brick collection. Click on the Artist tab for a listing of pick-up & drop-off sites.
